

MODERN SLAVERY POLICY

MD Govier (Electrical Engineering) Ltd adopts a zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery, human trafficking, and all forms of forced and compulsory labour. We fully support the government's objectives to eradicate all forms of modern slavery and human trafficking. We continue to set high standards of impartiality, integrity and transparency and ensure that all our activities are carried out with the highest level of ethical standards and follow any legislation that comes in to force.

We also require all organisations we engage with to ensure they also comply with the Modern Slavery Act, 2015. This includes the supply chains involved with purchasing goods and materials and where services are used that are labour related.

As our business has a turnover of less than £36 million, we do not have a legal obligation to produce a modern slavery statement. However:

- We agree that exploitation within all supply chains ending in the UK is a blight on our society, and we are committed to playing our part in eliminating exploitation;
- We understand that customers with obligations under the Modern Slavery Act 2015 cannot comply with those duties without our cooperation.

We can confirm that within our business, no relevant offence relating to slavery or human trafficking has been committed. At present our organisation is only operating within the UK, but we understand that our supply chain may reach to other geographical regions, and we shall do what is reasonably possible to determine where our suppliers operate from.
